

Bohloko Family Farm – Poultry Department

Integrated Poultry Farming, Processing & Distribution

1. Executive Summary

Bohloko Family Farm – Poultry Department is a community-based agricultural enterprise located in the Free State, South Africa. The business focuses on the production, slaughtering, processing, and distribution of high-quality poultry products for Bloemfontein, surrounding townships, and the broader Free State market. The project aims to strengthen food security, create local employment, and stimulate the township economy through sustainable poultry production.

2. Problem Statement

Bloemfontein and surrounding townships experience high unemployment, rising food prices, and limited participation in agricultural value chains. Most poultry consumed in the area is transported from other provinces, leading to high costs, unstable supply, and limited local economic benefit. There is a critical need for a locally rooted poultry production and processing enterprise that ensures affordable access to quality protein while creating jobs and economic opportunities within the Free State.

3. Business Objectives

- Produce affordable, high-quality poultry products
 - Establish a certified slaughtering and processing facility
 - Supply Bloemfontein city and township markets
 - Create sustainable employment opportunities
 - Strengthen local food security
 - Achieve profitability within 12–18 months
-

4. Products and Services

Core Products

- Live broiler chickens
- Whole dressed chickens
- Chicken portions (breast, thighs, wings, drumsticks)
- Frozen packaged chicken

Value-Added Products

- Marinated chicken portions
- Smoked chicken
- Chicken gizzards and offal

- Chicken feet

Sales Channels

- Farm gate sales
 - Local markets and butcheries
 - Restaurants and fast-food outlets
 - Online orders and home delivery
-

5. Market Analysis

Target Customers

- Urban and township households
- Spaza shops and butcheries
- Restaurants and caterers
- Schools, hospitals, and institutions
- Event service providers

Market Opportunity

Poultry remains South Africa's most consumed protein source. Demand in the Free State continues to grow while local production and processing capacity remains limited, creating strong market potential for a stable, locally produced poultry supply.

6. Operations Plan

Production Cycle

- Broiler growth period: 5–6 weeks
- Starting capacity: 500–1000 birds per cycle
- 6–8 production cycles per year

Facilities

- Poultry housing
- Feed storage
- Slaughtering and processing room
- Cold storage
- Delivery vehicle

Staffing

- Farm manager
- Poultry attendants
- Processing staff
- Sales and logistics assistant

7. Marketing and Sales Strategy

- Community-based branding
 - Social media and WhatsApp Business marketing
 - Local market promotions
 - Bulk supply contracts with retailers and institutions
 - Loyalty programs for repeat customers
-

8. Financial Overview (Sample – 1000 Birds per Cycle)

Item	Cost (ZAR)
Chicks	8,000
Feed & Medication	25,000
Labour & Utilities	7,000
Processing & Packaging	5,000
Total Cost	45,000

Projected Revenue

1000 birds × R85 average selling price = R85,000

Estimated Gross Profit per Cycle

R40,000

9. Risk Management

Risk	Mitigation
Disease outbreak	Vaccination & biosecurity
Rising feed prices	Bulk supplier contracts
Market fluctuations	Diversified sales channels
Power disruptions	Backup power solutions

10. Growth Strategy

- Expansion to 5,000+ birds per cycle
- Introduction of egg production
- Launch of branded retail outlet
- Development of online ordering platform

- Institutional and retail partnerships
-

11. Social & Economic Impact

- Job creation within townships
 - Youth and skills development
 - Strengthened food security
 - Local economic stimulation
 - Sustainable farming practices
-

12. Conclusion

Bohloko Family Farm – Poultry Department represents a scalable, high-impact agricultural enterprise with strong market demand and meaningful social contribution. The project aligns with regional development priorities and offers long-term economic benefits for the Free State community.
